

seat-height adjustment and control of your return need to give you the right saddle height, right away.
 2012, with an exclusive partnership with Scott and Trek, the Reverb Stealth features hose that exits bottom of the post, routing internally through the frame, creating a non-moving, clean hose-routing solution. No doubt it too will set another level in the adjustable height seat post category.

Reverb Stealth will be available exclusively on select Scott and Trek bikes for model year 2012. Scott spec the Stealth on the Genius LT 10 and 20, while Trek will provide specific model details in July.
 SRAM also launched their new MRP produced chain drive available in BB/ISCG or ISCG 05 mounts, 32-36 and 36-40 chainring sizes, but there was no talk of new models being reached!

All in all a highly entertaining two days, the highlight of which was (OK the shots were fun and punishing) working with the SRAM guys on the suspension set-up front and rear and riding a SRAM loaded Santa Cruz V10 carbon that certainly has entered a new echelon - 33.6lb of contaminated madness, eighty shots of pure sure. Somehow I got my words muddled.

Jones, Keineke and the sensational new V10/Sram. Peaty, Fairclough and the equally amazing shooters.

FLOW MTB THE MORZINE HQ

After the unforced error in travel arrangements on the journey south it was good to bed down somewhere homely when we arrived in Morzine. Sara at Flow Mtb sorted us right out. I wasn't quite expecting the full hospitality but the two nights stay set us up perfectly for the race/press week ahead.

Operating out of La Musardiére, bang in the middle of town, the Flow base is close to the chairlift, pool, legendary corner shop burger bar and of course the restaurants and bars. The chalet works on a Saturday changeover. The price for full week stays with breakfast and afternoon tea served every day and a three course evening meal with wine and beer on six nights is a crazy 495. This is exceptional value we think. Flow also include free use of our GPSs, route guides, workshop and will help advise you on where to ride or organise guides for you.

The food really was top class, the location made it so easy to get about and it was handy to have a garage with all the tools and shelter from the changeable Alpine weather. The lounge is relaxing and during our stay it was good to have Fionn Griffiths and Emelline Ragot around for some banter.
 Thanks folks!
